OF COUNSEL

Sonya Hamlin comes from a very unique background. She has a fond appreciation for the law and helping people with their legal matters; Since the age of seven, she knew that she wanted to become a Lawyer.

In her endeavors and journey of becoming an Attorney, she graduated from High School with an Advanced diploma having taken AP classes. She also attended the University of Virginia, graduating with a double major in Government & Foreign Affairs and African American Studies with a concentration on Sub-Saharan Africa.

Sonya then had the opportunity to study abroad at the London School of Economics and Politics for a summer under the tutelage of a barrister. Subsequently, she went to the American University Washington College of Law.

Sonya comes from a family of mixed descent, her mother being born and raised in the Philippines and her father being African American and Native Indian. Raised in beautiful Cape Cod Massachusetts, Sonya now lives in Glenn Dale, Maryland, where she is admitted to practice law.
