

BRENDAN THOMPSON

LAW CLERK

Brendan aims to aid entrepreneurs from entry to exit. His time at the Securities & Exchange Commission prepared him to assist founders in navigating the complexities of the securities laws and position their businesses for success. Brendan's practice is focused in three key areas:

1. Business Formation: helping entrepreneurs establish business entities, with experience in every entity type over a broad range of jurisdictions.
2. Corporate Finance: assisting founders in securing funding to launch or expand their business via debt, equity, or convertible securities.
3. Mergers & Acquisitions: representing both buy- and sell-side in small-to-middle market business transactions.

Brendan was born and raised in Leesburg, Virginia, but now resides in downtown Washington, DC. He attended Virginia Tech for undergrad, and earned his J.D. from George Mason, where he was a member of Law Review.
